The Assault on Rev. Elisha Green.

Bourbon News of the 12th inst.
Friday afternoon, Rev. G. T. Gould, Prof. Bristow and Prof. Corrington, of the Millersburg Female College, boarded the train for Lexington, having in charge about forty or fifty young ladies of the college, en route for Versailles, where they were to give an exhibition that night. The cars were crowded, of course. The Rev. Elisha Green, an aged colored minister of Maysville, who was en route for this place to preach Sunday, says that he was abruptly approached by two strangers who ordered him out of the seat, and at the same time took hold of him to drag him out. At this time another man came up and pounded him over the head several times with a heavy brass-bound valise, while the other two held him. He says that he made no resistance other than to throw up his hands to ward off the blows with the valise, and exhibited cuts on the fingers and head as the result of the strokes with the valise. The News also interviewed Col. Bob. Morrow, Government Storekeeper of this city, who corroborates Rev. Green, and states that he arose from a seat behind Rev. Green, and offered it to the Rev. Gould, who declined the acceptance of it, by remarking: "No, I thank you, I don't want that seat, but I'm going to have that one, and he's got to get out of here," at the same time, in company with Prof. Corrington, approached Rev. Green and took hold of him to drag him out of his seat. At this time Prof. Bristow came up with a heavy leather brass-bound valise in hand and proceeded to strike the Rev. Green over the head with it until conductor J. H. Martin came in and put a stop to it. Col. Morrow and others also state that Prof. Corrington attempted to draw a pistol, and that he admonished him to desist, and he didn't draw it. Another eye-witness also states that Prof. Bristow attempted to open his valise in an excited and domineering manner as if to get a pistol, but didn't open it.

On interviewing Rev. Green, he said that if he had been asked politely to vacate the seat, that he would have done so at once, but that he did not feel it his duty to give it up by a demand made in a threatening manner. He stated to the News that it was his intention to have the parties arraigned here on the charge of assault and battery, but as no warrants have been issued at this time, it is now understood from good authority, that warrants will be issued by a United States Commissioner, and that the case will be called in the United States Court in Covington, the complainant alleging that he cannot get justice in a civil court at home.

From statements made by different eye witnesses to the affair who are residents of this city, public opinion by a large majority denounces the conduct of the three professors toward the old colored minister, while two, there are many considerate men who claim that ordinary politeness should have prompted the Rev. Green to have voluntarily risen and offered his seat to the ladies standing in the aisle, and thereby saved the undue wrath, which, by his own actions, he had precipitated upon himself.

We have given the facts as given from the complainant's standpoint, and have had no opportunity of an interview with either of the professors or their immediate friends, save with James Payne, of Millersburg, who says that he came through the car when the fight was in progress, and that the Rev. Green drew back his fist to strike him, when he threatened to shoot him if he did.

We understand from good authority that several of the leading men of money and influence of Maysville, of both the Democratic and Republican parties, have offered to back the Rev. Green, financially, and that a lawyer of prominence has volunteered his services to prosecute his assailants in the United States Court at Covington.

In an interview with conductor Martin, he states that Rev. Gould demanded of him the removal of Rev. Green from the seat, but he declined doing so, stating that he was a quiet and inoffensive old preacher who had paid for his seat, and that he had no right to force him to give it up. And that as soon as he passed on to gather up the tickets, the difficulty took place as related above.

Rev. Green says that in the melee, he didn't forget that he was a preacher, but the Rev. Gould did.

LATER.—Since the above has been placed in type, warrants have been issued by Judge Turney, and constable James Taylor arrested the Rev. Gould and Professors Bristow and Corrington at Millersburg yesterday afternoon, who gave bond in the sum of $100 each.

ADMIRAL JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, a distinguished officer of the Confederate States Navy, died suddenly at Petersburg, Va., on the 12th inst. During the war he commanded the squadron at Charleston, S. C., and later the Naval Brigade in General Ewell's corps, Army of Northern Virginia. He was wounded and captured at the battle of Sailors' Creek, and was imprisoned in Fort Warren until the close of the struggle. On his release from prison he went to Peru and was made commander-in-chief of the navy of that country. The writer of this had the honor of serving with him at Charleston and in Virginia, and remembers, as others will, that he was as gallant a gentleman as ever trod the deck of a ship.

EXIT OF A RAILROAD KING.

Chester W. Chapin, the New England Vanderbilt is Dead.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 13.—Chester W. Chapin, ex-President of the Boston & Albany Railroad, lies dead at his home in this city. Mr. Chapin was born at Ludlow, December 15, 1798, and began his business life in Springfield at an early age, becoming a partner in the firm of Sargent & Chapin, who ran the stage line from Hartford to Brattleboro.

When steamboating began on the Connecticut river Mr. Chapin built boats, and soon controlled the whole river business from Hartford and this city as far north as Wells River, Vt. At that time he also bought and always kept a large interest in the New York line of boats to New Haven and Hartford. Mr. Chapin was largely influential in securing the building of the railroad from Hartford to this city, which was opened in 1844. He became President of the Connecticut River Railroad in 1850, and in 1854 was elected President of the Boston and Albany road, which office he held until 1877. In 1874 Mr. Chapin was elected to the Senate and served one term. He leaves a widow and three children. One of his daughters is the wife of President Bliss, of the Boston and Albany road; the other is the wife of Vice President Rumrill. His son, Chester W. Chapin, Jr., of New York, is President of the New York and New Haven Steamboat Company.

STILL ANOTHER CYCLONE.

It Tears Through Illinois and Iowa.
MARION, Ill., June 13.—News is just received of the terrible effects of the storm in Williamson county. Several houses were thrown down, and all farm fences in its path were destroyed. The loss of life is not known, but will reach twenty or twenty-five, it is supposed. Its direction was from southeast to the northwest. Two boys were killed in New Burnside and one whole family were struck by lightning. The mother was killed and the rest of the family are dying. Every report that comes in makes matters worse. Its track was about a quarter of a mile in width. Large trees were rooted up and borne along by the wind. Whole flocks of sheep were blown away. This is one of the best regions in Southern Illinois for peaches, but not a single tree is left standing in its track.

McGREGOR, Iowa, June 13.—The cyclone which passed through Brush Creek, Fayette County, Monday afternoon, did great damage. One family who fled into their cellar had a child fatally injured. The Carpenter House, a brick hotel, was unroofed and the front torn down. The United Brethren Church was carried off bodily and wrecked. Five dwelling-houses and some large barns were completely destroyed.

Death of the Lady in White.
NEWARK, N. J., June 13.—Mrs. Anna E. Thayer died at her home in Newark on Saturday night after an illness of three days. Probably no lady in Newark was more generally known than she. Her handsome face, dignified bearing and queenly carriage would have won her attention anywhere.

In all seasons of the year it was her custom to wear white garments at home, and her street apparel, except in the depth of winter, was always white. She lived in Newark her whole life. She was always cheerful, amiable and kind-hearted, and evinced a warm sympathy for the poor. Of late she showed much interest in the work of the Women's Aid Society. She was generally known as the white lady of Newark.

A Texas Cyclone.

McKENNEY, TEX., June 13.—Late on Saturday a terrible cyclone prevailed west of here. The dock hill place was completely destroyed by lightning. A well so full of water that it could have been dipped from the top was sucked dry. Joe Brown's place was utterly ruined. Everything in the path of 150 yards—cattle, horses, and fencing—was picked up and carried through the air like straw. The roar of the storm is described as deafening. Crops were very much injured.

In Jersey City, Hoboken and other places in Hudson county, the saloons and beer-gardens were all open, and beer brewed as freely as on any other in the week.

A WHISKER dye must be convenient to use, easy to apply, impossible to rub off, elegant in appearance, and cheap in price. Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers unites in itself all of these merits. Try it.
